CASE STUDIES

People Risk

Executive Protection for High Profile Politician

A high-profile former politician in the Americas was hosting a private event and approached Crisis24 to plan and provide professional security. A complete security plan was developed that combined ground assets and technology to ensure maximum protection, including comprehensive journey management planning, a 24/7 executive protection team of more than 40 personnel equipped with firearms and SUVs, real-time personnel tracking capabilities, and dynamic assessments of present and potential threats before and during the event.

Organizational Risk

Bespoke Intelligence Support & Risk Management for an International NGO

An international NGO with more than 10,000 staff from 170+ countries and offices in over 130 locations needed a duty of care program to ensure the safety and wellbeing of its people and assets, including in challenging environments. We implemented an intelligence and risk management approach that ensured a comprehensive view of threats to their organization and people, and a method of identifying personnel potentially at risk during an incident. The solution included an in-house team of dedicated intelligence analysts and security experts who took direct responsibility for managing all aspects of their Security Operations Center (SOC) utilizing Crisis24 technology.

Asset Risk

Threat Assessment for Global Engineering Client

A global engineering client operating on a high-profile oil and gas project in North Africa, an endeavor with an elevated threat of crime and terrorism, required a detailed Security Risk Assessment of physical and technical measures at the site level. Following an initial desk-based Threat Assessment of our global capabilities and network were leveraged to identify a three-person consulting team to deploy to the project location for site familiarization and stakeholder engagement. Crisis24 submitted a comprehensive security risk assessment compliant with the project's specifications.

Cyber Risk

Digital Risk and Contingency Planning

We were contacted by a financial institution that assists governments and private companies and was heavily dependent on their IT systems. Yet their disaster recovery plans were untested and potentially vulnerable. Crisis24 reviewed all their plans and material related to business continuity, with a strong focus on disaster recovery. We developed and launched a full day simulated cyber incident using the client's actual IT network and architecture to create a customized and realistic scenario. Our initiative helped our client identify existing gaps and weaknesses in their disaster recovery plans so they could respond with the appropriate resources and support.
